

OPINION

Power of attorney comes with unexpected responsibilities

When I accepted to take on a power of attorney for my elderly mother-in-law, it hadn't occurred to me that I may need to make financial decisions on matters about which I know nothing. The small amount of money she has is largely in the bank. However, she

To continue reading, create a free account or log in now.

Access additional articles, comment and sign up to newsletters.

Learn more about registration
